Final Evaluation of PBF-funded “Inclusive Governance and Justice System for Preventing Violent Extremism” project

Title of the Programme:	Inclusive Governance and Justice system for Preventing Violent Extremism (PID: 00108601)
Short title of the assignment:	National evaluator/consultant
Duty station:	Bishkek, with possible travels within Kyrgyzstan, according to the current epidemiological situation.
Contract type:	Individual Contract
Duration:	April – September 2021 (125 effective person days)

BACKGROUND

The onset of violent extremism in the Kyrgyz Republic is a challenge and threat both at the national and international level. According to National data, 803 Kyrgyzstan citizens have joined the ranks of foreign fighters either in Syria or Iraq. Most of the foreign fighters from the country are young males between 25-35 years-old, while women represent a growing number, constituting as much as 25% of citizens who reportedly have left to join foreign terror groups.

State authorities experience significant difficulties in understanding the contributing role that state policies and responses directly and indirectly play within this phenomenon. This difficulty has been arguably exacerbated by the still developing system of checks and balances stemming from the new Constitutional architecture, coordination challenges within the different State authorities as well as the legacy of the 2010 conflict. Although knowledge of the underlying drivers of radicalization and violent extremism has increased in the Kyrgyz Republic, instead of pursuing a policy of prevention by reducing the structural factors of exclusion that drive grievances, the state in some cases prioritizes security responses to violent extremism. These underlying drivers of radicalization and violent extremism are including lack of trust between population and the authorities, weak economic development, weak spiritual and religious education, and capacity, as well as influence of other complex social conflict drivers like interethnic and political tensions. As a result, a lack of trust between communities and law enforcement agencies related to PVE has emerged, which curtails the cooperation necessary for effective prevention of violent extremism is also noted as a worrisome trend. For example, in its research UN Women found that women in Kyrgyzstan rarely turn to the police when they have a problem or concern with violent extremism, while law enforcement officials have limited gender sensitive data collection, consolidation, analysis and reporting capacities. These gaps of both cultural and institutional nature remain critical concerns in PVE efforts to date that need to be addressed to ensure the ultimate success of preventing violent extremism in the Kyrgyz Republic.

In December 2017, the Government of the Kyrgyz Republic, the United Nations in the Kyrgyz Republic and United Nations Peacebuilding Fund (PBF) signed a Peacebuilding Priority Plan for 2018-2020 (PPP), which addresses the following aspects of preventing violent extremism (PVE):

- Strengthening justice and security sector institutions, national and local authorities to apply socially inclusive approaches, participatory decision-making and guarantee increased civic space.
- Capacitate penitentiary and probation officers as well as the police and forensic experts to prevent and address radicalization to violence by ensuring adequate safeguards respecting national and international standards.
- Increase women's and men's, boys' and girls' critical stance on ideologies instigating violence and their participation in local development and dialogues over PVE in target communities.

Within the context of Peacebuilding Priority Plan, UNDP, OHCHR, UN Women and UNICEF (all together as RUNOs – Recipient UN Organizations) in the Kyrgyz Republic are implementing PBF-funded project on “Inclusive Governance and Justice system for Preventing Violent Extremism” (hereinafter as to project) as part of PPP, which focuses on:

- Increasing capacity and expertise of state authorities to design and implement socially inclusive, gender sensitive, human rights compliant policies and legislation applying participatory approaches to prevent violent extremism.
- Increasing capacity and expertise of law enforcement and judiciary to be engaged with stakeholders, including human rights organizations, experts and communities and operate in line with international human rights standards to prevent violent extremism.
- Increasing capacity of civil society actors with a special focus to youth and women to actively engage in the field of preventing violent extremism with duty bearers.

Theory of change of the project provides that If state institutions, justice and security agencies are equipped with inclusive methodologies and expertise on PVE and if they are able to effectively implement participatory decision-making and legislative reforms in line with Human Rights and Rule of Law norms with the support of civil society representatives, THEN they will be able to engage in a more positive engagement with citizens leading to the reduction of potential drivers to violent extremism.

Implementation timeframe of the project is from 15/12/2017 to 14/06/2021.

The main national partners of the project are:

President's Office, Government Office, Secretariat of Defense Council, Ministry of Justice, State Commission on Religious Affairs, State Agency on Local Self Governance and Interethnic Relations, Ministry of Labor and Social Development, Ministry of Interior, Ministry of Culture, Information and Tourism, Local Self-Governance (LSG) bodies in selected districts, and CSOs (“Center for Public Policy”; “Civil Initiative on Internet Policy”; “Kyrgyz Association of women judges”; and etc.).

According to the 2018 Peacebuilding Fund Guidelines on Funds Application and Programming, every PBF project has to undertake an independent evaluation. The aim of this evaluation is to assess the results achieved within December 2017 – June 2021 by the project. However, due to the current Covid-19 restrictions and possible risks, evaluation process most possibly will be conducted online¹, at the same time some offline interviews are possible to be handled by national consultant.

OBJECTIVE

In close collaboration with the International evaluator (will be working remotely) the national consultant is responsible to assist with the overall evaluation process, which is targeted to assess achieved results under Project, sustainability of benefits and draw lessons that can inform future PVE, Peacebuilding and Development interventions to be further used and implemented by UN and other development partners.

The main purpose of this final evaluation is to assess the programmatic progress, performance of the project interventions from the point of view of relevance, effectiveness, impact, organizational efficiency, sustainability as well as analysis of lessons learnt highlighting areas where the project performed less effectively than anticipated. The findings of the evaluation will contribute to effective programming, refining the approaches of participating UN agencies to peacebuilding and preventing violent extremism, organizational learning and accountability. It will also be a key input to knowledge management on joint programmes, and peacebuilding interventions supported by the Peacebuilding Fund. The findings of the evaluation will moreover be used to engage policy makers and other stakeholders at local, national and regional levels in evidence-based dialogues and to advocate for gender-responsive and inclusive strategies to promote sustainable peace and development.

SCOPE OF WORK

The evaluation presents an opportunity to assess the achievements of this project and its overall added value to preventing violent extremism in Kyrgyzstan. The evaluation must apply conflict sensitivity, human rights approach and gender equality principles² to the evaluation methods.

Final project evaluation will be conducted according to the guidance, rules and procedures established by UNDP as reflected in the UNDP Evaluation Guidelines³.

The evaluation will assess the Project according to standard evaluation criteria, as elaborated below, in line with the OECD DAC Guidelines on Evaluating Peacebuilding in Settings of Conflict and Fragility⁴ and United Nations Evaluations Group norms and principles. The review will cover the full period the project has been operational. It is expected that the evaluator will develop and consecutively refine an evaluation matrix, which will relate to the above questions, the areas they refer to, the criteria for evaluating them, the indicators and the means for verification as a tool for the evaluation. The final evaluation matrix will be approved in the evaluation inception report.

Methodology

The evaluation will be conducted remotely and will employ a participatory approach, as much as possible, whereby discussions with and surveys of key stakeholders provide/ verify the substance of the findings. The evaluation will be based on gender and human rights principles and adhere to the UNEG Norms and Standards and Ethical Code of Conduct, as well as UN SWAP Evaluation Performance indicators. The evaluation process will be accompanied by

Evaluation Management Group (EMG) and proposed methodology and data collection tools should be in consultation with EMG accordingly. Proposals submitted by prospective consultants should outline a strong mixed method approach to data collection and analysis, clearly noting how various forms of evidence will be employed vis-à-vis each other to triangulate gathered information.

Proposals should be clear on the specific role each of the various methodological approaches plays in helping to address each of the evaluation questions. The methodologies for data collection may include but not necessarily be limited to:

- Rigorous desk review of documentation supplied by RUNOs team: Project documents, previous evaluations, project reports, key intervention reports and policies, etc. Where possible and relevant more detailed monitoring information will be analyzed, such as community monitoring data and activity reporting.⁶
- Desk review of legal, political, strategic and program-project related documents in the field of PVE in Kyrgyzstan for the period of 2018-2021. Based on the results of the desk review, a database of interventions in the field of PVE should be compiled, which are carried out by international organizations and NGOs\CSOs, as well as the government of the Kyrgyz Republic.
- Key informant interviews and focus group discussions, as appropriate, with major stakeholders (Interviews will be conducted online). Stakeholders will be selected in close coordination with Responsible UN Organizations (RUNOs) and Evaluation Management Group (EMG), and will at minimum include:
 - Government authorities with a key responsibility towards the project, including – primarily - relevant authorities at district and municipality level.
 - UN Resident Coordinator’s office (UN RC), UN Peacebuilding Fund (PBF), RUNOs, Peace and Development Adviser (PDA).

The evaluation process has six phases:

- 1) Preparation: gathering and analyzing project data, conceptualizing the evaluation approach, internal consultations on the approach, preparing the TOR, establishment of the Evaluation Management Group (EMG) and the Evaluation Reference Group (ERG), stakeholders mapping and selection of evaluation team.
- 2) Inception: consultations between the evaluation team and the EMG, programme portfolio review, finalization of stakeholder mapping, inception meeting with the ERG, review of the result logics, analysis of information relevant to the initiative, finalization of evaluation methodology and preparation and validation of inception report.
- 3) Data collection and analysis: in depth desk research, in-depth review of PBF project document, PPP and other, interviews/FGDs, staff and partner survey/s where applicable.
- 4) Interview with relevant stakeholders that can be taken on an individual basis or in groups. If the evaluation is to be conducted online than the meetings will be held online with all stakeholders.
- 4) Analysis and synthesis stage analysis of data and interpretation of findings and drafting and validation of an evaluation report and other communication products.

❖ Validation

The review findings will be presented to the RUNOs during joint online call to collect feedback on these main findings and serve as a validation exercise.

The draft Report and Final Reports: The Report should be logically structured, contain evidence-based findings, conclusions, lessons learnt and recommendations, and should be free of information that is not relevant to the overall analysis. The Report should respond in detail to the key focus areas described above.
