UNITED NATIONS DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMME TERMS OF REFERENCE / INDIVIDUAL CONTRACT

Terms of Reference for the Appointment of International Consultant for the Terminal Evaluation of the GEF-funded project entitled “Sustainable natural resource and forest management in key mountainous areas important for globally significant biodiversity”

Project name:	Sustainable natural resource and forest management in key mountainous areas important for globally significant biodiversity (Mountain Ecosystems project)
Post title:	International Consultant for the Terminal Evaluation (TE) of full-sized UNDP-GEF project
Type of contract:	Individual Contract (IC)
Assignment type:	International Consultant
Country / Duty Station:	Home Based with one mission of minimum 10 working days to Uzbekistan (not including weekends)
Expected places of travel (if applicable):	Tashkent and Kashkadarya regions
Languages required:	English
Duration of Contract:	April – September 2022 (28 working days)
Application Deadline:	18 March 2022

1. Introduction

In accordance with UNDP and GEF M&E policies and procedures, all full- and medium-sized UNDP-supported GEF-financed projects are required to undergo a Terminal Evaluation (TE) at the end of the project. This Terms of Reference (ToR) sets out the expectations for the TE of the full-sized project titled “Sustainable natural resource use and forest management in key mountainous areas important for globally significant biodiversity” (ATLAS#00090383, PIMS 5438) implemented through the State Committee of the Republic of Uzbekistan on Ecology and Environmental protection (Goscomecology). The project started on the 21 September 2017 and is in its sixth (final) year of implementation. The TE process must follow the guidance outlined in the document ‘Guidance for Conducting Terminal Evaluations of UNDP-Supported, GEF-Financed Projects’.

2. Project Background and Context

The project was designed to support improved and effective management of protected areas as well as sustainable use and management of mountain pastures and forests, and biodiversity conservation in two snow leopard landscapes (Western Tian Shan and Pamir Alay) of Uzbekistan.

Project Goal, Objective, Outcomes and Outputs/activities

The project objective is “To enhance the conservation, and sustainable use, of natural resources in the biodiverse high altitude mountain ecosystems of Uzbekistan”.

In order to achieve the project objective, the project is structured into four components, with each component comprising a complementary suite of two to three outputs.

Component/Outcome 1: Landscape level planning and management decision-making. The first component will enhance the quality of information on key ecosystems, habitats and species of the high altitude mountains that are home to snow leopard and prey populations. Information collected under this component will be used to support sectoral land use planning and decision-making in these mountainous regions. Work under this component will be focused around two key areas of project support: (i) Improve the quality of environmental information for state cadastre in the snow leopard distribution range (Output 1.1); and (ii) Enhance the state of knowledge on snow leopard and prey populations (Output 1.2).

Component/Outcome 2: Strengthening key biodiversity areas. The second component will seek to expand and build the management capacity of the core conservation zones and high conservation value forests located within the two targeted snow leopard landscapes. Outputs and activities in this component will be directed at securing the conservation security of the key snow leopard and prey migration corridors within the two snow leopard landscapes. Work under this component will be focused around three key areas of project support: (i) Strengthen the conservation tenure, and improve the management effectiveness, of the core conservation zones in Ugam-Chatkal National Park (Output 2.1); (ii) Extend, and improve the conservation security of, Gissar Strict Nature Reserve (Output 2.2); and (iii) Enhance community involvement in, and beneficiation from, the protected areas (Output 2.3).

Component/Outcome 3: Sustainable economic development incentives for communities. The third component will seek to encourage more sustainable levels of use of the high altitude pastures and indigenous forests located within the two targeted snow leopard landscapes. Outputs and activities under this component will contribute to improving the ecological integrity and productivity of forest and grassland habitats in the snow leopard landscapes. Work under this component will be focused around two key areas of project support: (i) Incentivize the adoption of more sustainable pasture management practices (Output 3.1); and (ii) Reverse the trend of unsustainable forest use in, and degradation of, natural forests (Output 3.2).

Component/Outcome 4: Promoting cooperation and collaboration. The fourth component will promote improved cooperation and collaboration in the conservation of snow leopard and their ecosystems. It is envisaged that more integrated planning, stronger cooperative governance structures and improved institutional and individual capabilities of all partner agencies and institutions will improve the collective national capacity to conserve and sustainably use snow leopards, their prey and their ecosystems. Work under this component will be focused around two key areas of project support: (i) Improve inter-agency coordination in conservation, monitoring and enforcement (Output 4.1); and (ii) Strengthen the capacity for trans-boundary planning and management (Output 4.2).

The project implementation period is 2017-2022. The time is based on activities that will provide implementation of best practices, their assessment and primer dissemination of recommendations on their replication in other similar regions of Uzbekistan. Building of sufficient capacity and practical know-how within essential state institutions and local authorities will take too long to allow project sustainability. One of the main lessons learned by UNDP and other development partners in Central Asia in the last 15 years is that to change and reform existing institutions and mind-sets is an extremely time-consuming process if it is to be achieved effectively. This has been a clear lesson from most of UNDP and other development actors' initiatives in the area and a key reason for many projects to not achieve the full results expected. Thus, it is of paramount importance that in the project a realistic timeframe for the systematic implementation of the various project activities is planned in order to mitigate this risk. This is an additional reason why the timeframe of 5 years has been considered necessary.

The project budget planned for the period of implementation is given in the table below. The actually used donors' funds are indicated by UNDP and GEF (6,509,863$).

The project will instigate institutional change with the true understanding and support of the institutions themselves for the change to be effective and sustainable. The major aim of the project is to build the experience, know-how and technical capacity of key national, regional and district level institutions so that they themselves are better able to understand and deliver change that responds to the evolving natural resources use situation in Uzbekistan. This is the most significant factor in making such institutions sustainable and continuing to be sustainable despite inevitable climate and economic "shocks" that may occur in the future.

The project activities are implemented under coordination of Goscomecology of Uzbekistan, as the national implementation agency of the project. Goscomecology is responsible for regulatory framework related to ecology, environmental protection and biodiversity use and conservation. Ministries and agencies of the country are involved in the project implementation through a mechanism of interactions through Goscomecology and are represented with members of the national Project Board (project steering committee).

3. TE Purpose and Objective

The TE report will assess the achievement of project results against what was expected to be achieved, and draw lessons that can both improve the sustainability of benefits from this project, and aid in the overall enhancement of UNDP programming. The TE report promotes accountability and transparency, and assesses the extent of project accomplishments.

The purpose of the evaluation is to provide an independent external view of the progress of the project at its completion, and to provide feedback and recommendations to UNDP and project stakeholders.

The objectives of the Terminal Evaluation is to:

- Identify potential project design issues;
- Assess progress toward achievement of expected project objective and outcomes;
- Identify and document lessons that can both improve the sustainability of benefits from this project and aid in the overall enhancement of UNDP and GEF programming in the region; and
- Make recommendations necessary to help consolidate and support sustainability of the project results.

The Terminal Evaluation should also provide recommendations for follow-up activities, which require a management response prepared by the project team, which should be uploaded to PIMS and to the UNDP Evaluation Office Evaluation Resource Center \(ERC\).

The International Consultant (IC) will be responsible for the preparation of a high quality report and timely submission.

4. TE Approach and Methodology

The TE report must provide evidence-based information that is credible, reliable and useful.

The evaluation team is strongly encouraged to review UNDP's evaluation quality guidelines and criteria (available here: <http://web.undp.org/evaluation/guideline/section-6.shtml>) to ensure that the evaluation report meets the highest standards for quality, as the finalized report will be internally reviewed by UNDP to ensure it meets quality standards.

Evaluative evidence will be assessed against the main UNDP and GEF evaluation criteria, as identified and defined in Table 1 below:

Table 1. GEF and UNDP Main Evaluation Criteria for GEF Projects

Relevance
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The extent to which the activity is suited to local and national development priorities and organizational policies, including changes over time. • The extent to which the project is in line with the GEF Operational Programs or strategic priorities under which the project was funded. • Note: Retrospectively, the question of relevance often becomes a question as to whether the objectives of an intervention or its design are still appropriate given changed circumstances.
Effectiveness
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The extent to which an objective has been achieved or how likely it will be achieved.
Efficiency
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The extent to which results have been delivered with the least costly resources possible; also called cost-effectiveness or efficacy.
Results
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The positive and negative, foreseen and unforeseen changes to and effects produced by a development intervention. • In GEF terms, results include direct project outputs, short to medium-term outcomes, and longer-term impact including global environmental benefits, replication effects and other local effects.
Sustainability
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The likely ability of an intervention to continue to deliver benefits for an extended period of time after completion: financial risks, socio-political risks, institutional framework and governance risks, environmental risks • Projects need to be environmentally, as well as financially and socially sustainable.

The evaluation methodology to be used will be determined by the terminal evaluation team, and will be specified in the evaluation inception report. The methodology may include various forms of quantitative and qualitative data collection and analysis, including document review, qualitative document analysis, interviews, surveys, focus group surveys, field site inspection, and any other relevant methods. The evaluation team should endeavor to collect data from the representative selection of stakeholders and partners, including local and national government, local resource users and stakeholders, beneficiaries, resource managers, civil society, private sector, multilateral and bilateral partners, etc. The evaluation team should use multiple sources of data to triangulate information for all findings and conclusions.

The evaluation will specifically address gender, vulnerable groups, disability issues and/or human rights specific questions, as relevant. The evaluation team must ensure that the evaluation approach and methodology is appropriate to ensure inclusion of these topics, including relevant data collection methods. For example, interview guides, surveys, questionnaires, etc. should include questions addressing gender, vulnerable groups, disability issues and/or human rights specific issues, as relevant.

The IC will review all relevant sources of data and information including documents prepared during the preparation phase (i.e. PIF, UNDP Initiation Plan, UNDP Social and Environmental Screening Procedure/SESP) the Project Document, project reports including annual PIRs, project budget revisions, lesson learned reports, national strategic and legal documents, and any other materials that the team considers useful for this evidence-based evaluation. The IC will review the baseline and midterm GEF focal area Core Indicators / Tracking Tools submitted to the GEF at the CEO endorsement and midterm stages and the terminal Core Indicators / Tracking Tools that must be completed before the TE field mission begins.

Role of Evaluation Partners: The IC is expected to follow a participatory and consultative approach ensuring close engagement with the Project Team, government counterparts (the GEF Operational Focal Point), Implementing Partners, the UNDP Country Office(s), the Regional Technical Advisor, direct beneficiaries and other stakeholders. Engagement of stakeholders is vital to a successful TE. Stakeholder involvement should include interviews with stakeholders who have project responsibilities, including but not limited to executing agencies, senior officials and task team/component leaders, key experts and consultants in the subject area, Project Board, project beneficiaries, academia, local government and CSOs, etc. Additionally, the IC is expected to conduct field missions to Uzbekistan, including the project sites in Kashkadarya and Tashkent regions to meet with the local communities and beneficiaries. Evaluation partners and stakeholders will be expected to provide fact-based inputs to the evaluation in a clear and transparent manner, and the evaluation team will take all relevant and necessary measures to support them in doing so. This will include application of the appropriate level of confidentiality, and ensuring avoidance of conflicts of interest.

The specific design and methodology for the TE should emerge from consultations between the IC and the above-mentioned parties regarding what is appropriate and feasible for meeting the TE purpose and objectives and answering the evaluation questions, given limitations of budget, time and data. The IC must use gender-responsive methodologies and tools and ensure that gender equality and women's empowerment, as well as other cross-cutting issues and SDGs are incorporated into the TE report.

The final methodological approach including interview schedule, field visits and data to be used in the evaluation must be clearly outlined in the TE Inception Report and be fully discussed and agreed between UNDP, stakeholders and the IC.

The final report must describe the TE approach, and the rationale for the approach, identifying any limitations of the approach. The final report must also describe any limitations encountered by the Evaluation team during the evaluation process, including limitations of the methodology, data collection methods, and any potential influence of limitation on how findings may be interpreted, and conclusions drawn. Limitations include, among others: language barriers, inaccessible project sites (due to travel restrictions because of COVID), issues with access to data or verification of data sources, issues with availability of interviewees to engage in in-person meetings or virtually in the evaluation process, methodological limitations to collecting more extensive or more representative qualitative or quantitative evaluation data, deviations from planned data collection and analysis set out in the TOR and Inception Report, etc. Efforts made to mitigate the limitations should also be included in the report.

Feedback Mechanism: Once the draft terminal evaluation report is complete, the evaluation team will share the draft report with the UNDP Country Office and Project team for factual corrections and suggestions for strengthening the quality of the evaluation report. The draft report will be circulated by UNDP to the other project stakeholders who have provided input to the report, as relevant. Once feedback and comments are shared with the evaluation team, the evaluation team will produce the finalized evaluation report, taking into account the feedback and comments received, as appropriate. In instances where there is unresolvable disagreement between the evaluation team and UNDP or other stakeholders on evaluation findings or conclusions, any dissenting views or additional relevant information will be included in the evaluation management response, which will be attached to the evaluation report as an annex.

Principles of the Evaluation: The evaluation must be conducted in accordance with the GEF M&E Policy, which includes the following principles for evaluation: Credibility, Utility, Impartiality, Transparency, Disclosure, and Participation. The review must also be conducted in line with United Nations Evaluation Group norms and standards. The review must provide evidence-based information that is credible, reliable and useful. The review should follow a participatory and consultative approach ensuring close engagement with government counterparts, and with the UNDP project teams. The review should be carried out in accordance with the guidance outlined in the UNDP Handbook on Planning, Monitoring and Evaluating for Development Results, and in accordance with the evaluation guidance in the UNDP Guidance for Conducting Terminal Evaluations of UNDP-GEF projects.

5. Detailed Scope of the TE

As previously stated, the evaluation team is strongly encourage to review UNDP’s evaluation report quality criteria and guidelines (access at: <http://web.undp.org/evaluation/guideline/section-6.shtml>) to ensure that the evaluation report covers all relevant and necessary aspects of the project.

The TE report will assess the achievement of project results against the planned results, and draw lessons that can both improve the sustainability of project outcomes, and aid in the overall enhancement of UNDP programming. The TE report promotes accountability and transparency, and assesses the extent of project accomplishments. The final evaluation will focus on the delivery of the project’s results as initially planned, and as updated after the mid-term evaluation. The final evaluation will look at impact and sustainability of results, including the contribution to capacity development and the achievement of global environmental benefits/goals.

ToR Annex E: UNEG Code of Conduct for Evaluators

Independence entails the ability to evaluate without undue influence or pressure by any party (including the hiring unit) and providing evaluators with free access to information on the evaluation subject. Independence provides legitimacy to and ensures an objective perspective on evaluations. An independent evaluation reduces the potential for conflicts of interest which might arise with self-reported ratings by those involved in the management of the project being evaluated. Independence is one of ten general principles for evaluations (together with internationally agreed principles, goals and targets: utility, credibility, impartiality, ethics, transparency, human rights and gender equality, national evaluation capacities, and professionalism).

Evaluators/Consultants:

Must present information that is complete and fair in its assessment of strengths and weaknesses so that decisions or actions taken are well founded.
 Must disclose the full set of evaluation findings along with information on their limitations and have this accessible to all affected by the evaluation with expressed legal rights to receive results.
 Should protect the anonymity and confidentiality of individual informants. They should provide maximum notice, minimize demands on time, and respect people's right not to engage. Evaluators must respect people's right to provide information in confidence, and must ensure that sensitive information cannot be traced to its source. Evaluators are not expected to evaluate individuals, and must balance an evaluation of management functions with this general principle.
 Sometimes uncover evidence of wrongdoing while conducting evaluations. Such cases must be reported discreetly to the
