The forum has successfully brought together over 40 Foundations and Trusts to be part of its membership since its inception in March 2015. These include private, corporate and community foundations. KCDF in partnership with the EAAG currently acts as the interim virtual secretariat with rotational leadership among the steering committee members.

The Forum has initiated a series of interventions that has organically increased and built the constituency of the philanthropic sector. They include:

- Successfully brought together 40 Foundations and Trusts to be part of its membership. These include private, corporate and community foundations. KCDF in partnership with the EAAG currently acts as the interim virtual secretariat with rotational leadership among the steering committee members.
- Established three working groups that focus on:
  - Data management: The team seeks to establish clear philanthropy data sets to effectively collect data that demonstrates the philanthropy sector's contribution in Kenya's GDP.
  - Promoting an enabling environment: continuous conversation on ensuring that the regulatory, legal and fiscal environment continues to facilitate the work of the philanthropy sector.
  - Education: to strengthen partnership, increase effectiveness of the philanthropy sector in supporting Education in Kenya and positively engage national and county governments.
- Successfully building philanthropy data: through the various data forums held in the last two years, critical data sets have been identified to improve data collection on local giving and give the sector recognition in national development.
- Successfully engaged in the Education sector: consolidated efforts of philanthropy in the education sector and initiated a working partnership between the Ministry of Education and the Philanthropy sector.
- Successfully engaged on the United Nations Development Assistance Framework (UNDAF), where Foundations representatives are part of the technical advisors to the UNDP.
- Ongoing conversations on the place of philanthropy actors in line with the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).
- And most recently, recognition of the philanthropy sector in the Development Partners Forum.
